How to use this guide

Overview

This guide has 6 sections.

Section 1 deals with the hyphenation, setting solid and spacing of words (and some phrases).

Section 2 deals with the use of italics for foreign words and phrases.

Section 3 deals with the spelling of words with alternative spellings.

Section 4 deals with abbreviations and contractions.

Section 5 deals with symbols.

Section 6 deals with measurement.

How entries are arranged

Entries in each section (except sections 5 and 6) are listed in alphabetical order arranged on a letter-by-letter basis.

1 Words hyphenated, set solid and spaced

This section sets out words (and some phrases) that appear in ACT legislation (current or repealed). For this section, phrases are treated in the same way as words.

The spelling in this section is followed in draft legislation and republications. For words that are not in this section but are in the online edition of the Macquarie Dictionary, the spelling given in the Macquarie Dictionary (as the commonest spelling) is followed. For words that are not in the Macquarie Dictionary, the spelling given in the Australian Oxford Dictionary is followed. For this purpose spelling includes hyphenation and writing words spaced or set solid (see the explanation on pages xix and xxiv of the Macquarie Dictionary).

One column in this section contains hyphenated words, another contains non-hyphenated words set solid (that is, given as a single word without spaces), and the final column contains non-hyphenated words that are spaced (that is, given as 2 or more words with spaces between the words).

If the word does not appear in the online edition of the Macquarie Dictionary it is indicated after the word that the entry is inline with the Australian Oxford Dictionary.

If a word that appears in the Macquarie Dictionary is spelt differently in the Australian Oxford Dictionary, this is indicated after the word. For example, '(but O xyz)' after 'airbag' indicates that 'airbag' appears in the Macquarie Dictionary but that the word is spelt differently in the Australian Oxford Dictionary. In cases of inconsistency between the dictionaries, the Macquarie Dictionary should always be followed.

Most entries also indicate whether the word is used as an adjective, adverb, noun, pronoun, verb or phrase. This information can be important because some words are spelt differently as, for example, a noun and a verb. For example, 'clean up' is spelt with a hyphen as a noun and without a hyphen as a verb.

Not all words appear in the online edition of the Macquarie Dictionary or in the Australian Oxford Dictionary.

An office practice has been established for these words. Wherever possible, a decision has been made in accordance with the Style Manual (6th ed), chapter 6 (Spelling and word punctuation).

2 Italicising foreign words and phrases

This section sets out foreign words and phrases (or words and phrases of recent foreign origin). Foreign words and phrases should be avoided in draft legislation. See Words and Phrases for more information.

Office practice is not to italicise foreign words and phrases that are in the latest edition of the Macquarie Dictionary. Other foreign words and phrases are italicised.

Accordingly, you may prefer to go directly to the Macquarie Dictionary rather than use this section.

3 Spelling of words with alternative spellings

This section sets out words with alternative spellings that appear in ACT legislation.

If a word has alternative spellings, the Macquarie Dictionary usually indicates the commonest spelling of the word (see explanations on pages xviii, xix and xxiv of the Macquarie Dictionary). Office practice is always to follow the commonest spelling of a word given in the Macquarie Dictionary.

The Macquarie Dictionary treats some words as having equally preferred spellings. This section gives the spelling of these words that is (and is not) to be followed.

The section also gives the page(s) of the Macquarie Dictionary or the Australian Oxford Dictionary where the word appears.

4 Abbreviations and contractions

This section lists some abbreviations and contractions used in ACT legislation.

An abbreviation is a shortened form of a word (or words) that consists of only the initial letter, or the initial letter and other letters, but NOT the final letter (eg s for section). A contraction is a shortened form of a word (or words) that consists of at least the first and last letters of the word (eg Pty for Proprietary).

The abbreviations and contractions in this section are followed in ACT legislation.

In legislation, eg and ie are only used in notes and, in appropriate cases, inside brackets. Abbreviations of legislation units are used in notes, provision headings, chapters, parts, divisions, subdivisions and schedules and, in appropriate cases, inside brackets. Use a provision abbreviation as the first word of a sentence cautiously. For example, a sentence in a note should start with ‘Section 40’ rather than ‘S 40’, which looks awkward. But a sentence in a note may start with ‘Ch 10’ or ‘Div 10’.

Abbreviations of legislation units are always in lower-case unless they begin a sentence (or equivalent).

Some of the abbreviations in this section are not consistent with the Macquarie Dictionary. Office practice is not to use full stops for some common abbreviations. (The general practice of the Macquarie Dictionary is not to use full stops in abbreviations with capital letters but to use them for abbreviations with lower-case letters.)

Words and Phrases deals with the usage of some abbreviations (for example, eg, etc and ie).

5 Symbols

This section lists only selected symbols.

A listed symbol should generally be used instead of the equivalent word (or words). For additional information about the use of symbols, see the Commonwealth Style Manual (6th ed) pp 178–186.

6 Measurement

Office practice is to use the appropriate symbol when referring to a physical quantity. If the symbol is not well known or likely to be confused, an appropriate note is included in non-technical contexts. Symbols are not separated from the numerical value of the relevant physical quantity by a space (eg 10gm not 10 gm). With this exception, the rules about measurement in the Commonwealth Style Manual (6th ed) are followed. The names and symbols of legal units of measurement are set out in the National Measurement Regulations 1999 (Cwlth).
